Tim Nikolsky wins APRA/AMCOS Australian Music Centre’s award for “Excellence in Jazz” for his work on the Australian Jazz Real Book at the Art Music Awards held at the Plaza Ballroom Tuesday 16th August.

“It is an amazing honour to be acknowledged by my peers in this way.” he said. “APRA/AMCOS and the Australian Music Centre do an incredible job of celebrating and supporting Australia’s rich Arts scene.”

Dr. Tim Nikolsky completed his PhD at RMIT University under the supervision of Professor David Forrest.

Tim currently works as a teacher of Sound Production and Music Performance at Melbourne Polytechnic.

The Australian Jazz Real Book is dedicated to the preservation and distribution of Australian Jazz in both digital and print. It contains 417 tunes in physical book form, and an ever expanding number (currently 856) of tunes that are digitally curated online and are available to subscribers. Most of Australia’s main tertiary music institutions subscribe to the resource, enabling each student free access to this definitive collection of Australian Jazz for free. This ensures that our next generation of artists have the opportunity to understand and experience their musical heritage, and further develop this country’s rich cultural history of Australian Jazz.

Tim Nikolsky is available for interviews. Hi-res photos available on request.
